A Brush For Every Purpose

Not simply a brush which may do for the task you have in hand, but a brush which is made for that very purpose, and which does it well.

Ever have trouble in brushing out the buttons on mattresses or on upholstered furniture? There is a brush made for that work.

Ever have trouble in reaching the corners in the stair cases? There is a brush which fits that, too.

Interest In Draft Readjustment—Death of Peleg Lawton—Private Court Endeavoring to Decide In Matter of Wills of Mary J. Crandall—Estate of Mary Elizabeth Hall Goes to Husband—Investigating Mill Fire.

The apportionment made Saturday by Capt. George H. Webb, director of the draft for Rhode Island, has been readjusted, as Provost General Crowder refused to allow credits for 20 more enlistments than were accounted for in his department. The general allows 2,732 credits for voluntary enlistments in the army since last May (navy enlistments do not count) and 1,340 credits for registrants inducted in the second draft in the past few months, so that the gross quota of the state is 5,640, minus these credits, leaves a net quota of 1,262 white men, which will be sent to Camp Upton about May 25, and 45 colored men who will be inducted shortly thereafter.

In state division No. 1, which includes all of Washington county and Essex and West Greenwich townships in Kent county, the gross quota is 335, enlistment credits 105, national army credit 61, net quota white 65, net quota colored 20, total 85.

Registrants in Class 1 will be able to tell where they stand as to liability to call by consulting the figures showing the number of men in that class, and who will be taken into the new call. For instance, the first 64 are assured of being in the present summons, and others can form some estimate of their chances of being called soon by observing that 121 men will be left to be called in order, after the new increment is sent to training camp. When this call is completed Rhode Island will have left in the state only 4,650 white and 173 colored men for future levies. Other men are in Class 1 but they are either held for limited service or are otherwise unavailable for general army service. The resources of some districts will be so depleted by this call that scarcely any available men remain.

John J. Dunn of Westerly, secretary of the state board of agriculture, will speak on The Co-operative Work of Committees at a meeting of the state and local wood fuel committees of the state held at the state capitol on Thursday afternoon at the state capitol. The topics to be discussed relate to increasing the supply of wood for fuel purposes. Fuel Administrator George H. Holmes, of Westerly, will report on Methods of Increasing Wood Production, and Jesse R. Mow will tell of Fuel Wood and Forest Improvement.

According to the latest official figures Rhode Island subscribed $29,650.00 on the Liberty bond allotment of $5,000,000, and the twelve districts of the state each exceeded their allotment. When complete returns are in the percentages will be somewhat increased. The amounts by percentages and districts follow:

District No. 1, Bristol—Allotment $125,000; raised $283,850, 227 per cent.
District No. 2, Pawtucket—Allotment $125,000; raised $283,850, 227 per cent.
District No. 3, Foster, Glocester, Scituate and Smithfield—Allotment $125,000; raised $283,850, 227 per cent.
District No. 4, Coventry, East Greenwich, West Greenwich, Warwick and West Warwick—Allotment $125,000; raised $283,850, 227 per cent.
District No. 5, Jamestown, Little Compton, Middletown, Newport, North Shoreham, Portsmouth and Tiverton—Allotment $125,000; raised $283,850, 227 per cent.
District No. 6, Exeter and North Kingstown—Allotment $125,000; raised $283,850, 227 per cent.
District No. 7, Pawtucket, Central Falls, Johnston and Pawtucket—Allotment $125,000; raised $283,850, 227 per cent.
District No. 8, Providence, Cranston and Johnston—Allotment $125,000; raised $283,850, 227 per cent.
District No. 9, South Kingstown and Narragansett—Allotment $125,000; raised $283,850, 227 per cent.
District No. 10, Barrington and Warren—Allotment $125,000; raised $283,850, 227 per cent.
District No. 11, Charlestown, Hopkinton, Richmond and Westerly—Allotment $125,000; raised $283,850, 227 per cent.
District No. 12, Cumberland (north), North Smithfield and Woonsocket—Allotment $125,000; raised $283,850, 227 per cent.

The banner town is Scituate in the Third district, 472 of whose residents have subscribed $34,125, or 444 per cent.

Peleg Lawton, 79, of Westerly, who was stricken with paralysis a week ago, died Monday night at his home in Chestnut street. In early life he worked at carpentering, and for more than 20 years he was employed as an engineer by the Smith Granite company. Mr. Lawton is survived by his wife, who is an invalid, by two sons, Everett and William, and a daughter, Mrs. Edwin A. Hall of Westerly; also by a brother, William Lawton of Westerly.

Deputy Sheriff William H. Casey attached the J. S. Hinckley store Tuesday to satisfy a claim of $5,000 of Mrs. Fred S. Opie on notes given for cash advanced. Mr. Opie was formerly an owner of the store, but it is said he transferred his interest. The directors and principal stockholders in the store are James J. Moore and Charles Opie, both now in the military service, and William H. Casey, who has been manager of the store since Mr. Moore's death. The store is located on the corner of the village of the boundary line and the writ of attachment is returnable to the superior court for New London county.

The will, or wills, of Mary J. Crandall were before the Westerly probate court, Judge Edward M. Burke, Tuesday, on petition of Mrs. Bessie C. Crandall, of Westerly, who is the executrix of the will of her late husband, Mr. J. J. Crandall, the petitioner for probating two wills, testified that after petition to probate the first will, she found in a bureau drawer in the Crandall house, which made her the chief beneficiary, her husband, now deceased and brother of the first will. Another will, drawn by Eugene B. Pendleton, executed after the first will and before the will found by Mrs. Crandall, was destroyed by Mrs. Crandall according to a statement she is alleged to have made to Mrs. Netherwood, and which changed the conditions of the two wills now in court.

Mrs. Netherwood gave testimony as to her friendly relations with Mrs. Crandall, who spent the greater part of her time in the Crandall home, and Mrs. Netherwood's farm in New Jersey, and who had told witness repeatedly that all she possessed would eventually go to Mrs. Netherwood, as it would have gone to her husband's sister of testator, had he survived. This second will was, according to the testimony of Mrs. Netherwood, written by Mr. Crandall, witnessed by William Carr, who was killed in battle in France, and by Mrs. Crandall and Mrs. Mary J. Crandall, who was unable to be in court by reason of sickness. A physician's certificate to that effect was produced, and also an affidavit that she and Mr. Carr had witnessed the will of Mary J. Crandall.

Mrs. Netherwood was questioned at length by her attorney, Judge Herbert W. Rathbun, and by Attorney Davis and Roche in the interests of other parties. The two latter attorneys insisted that Mrs. Crandall should appear in court and that the time be extended until such time as she was physically able to attend. To this Judge Rathbun did not object but it was found that the woman could not come to Westerly within a reasonable time. Judge Pendleton then took the case to the third Friday in May.

The will of Mary Elizabeth Hall, who died March 31, 1918, was admitted to probate. She bequeathed life interest in all the personal property to her husband, John Franklin Hall, with the right to sell all or any part of same for his support or comfort. The sum of $200 was given to a nephew, Mary Louise Hall, $500 to a nephew, Robert Pendleton Hall and $500 to the First Baptist church. The rest and residue of the estate is given to her nephew, Robert Pendleton Hall, should her husband not survive, what would have come to him is to be divided equally with Mary Louise Hall, Robert Hall and the First Baptist church. The Washington Trust company was confirmed as executor in bond of $10,000 without surety. Tristan D. Babcock was appointed appraiser.

The Washington Trust company, executor of the estate of John J. Kelley, which showed a balance of $2,831.50. Releases were submitted showing that the amount had been paid to legatees. Report accepted and ordered recorded. Inventories were received and ordered recorded in the estates of Bethena A. Pendleton, value $60,986.50, James H. Symons, value $151.

The Washington Trust company, executors of the estate of Simon J. Reuter presented releases showing that these legacies had been paid: To Louis J. Reuter, $3,340.10; Miss Mary M. Reuter, $8,000.16; and to Barbara K. Luck, $6,000.11. Received and ordered recorded.

An exemplified copy of the will made by George A. Popek who died in Baltimore, was received for record, the decedent owning property in Westerly, to be administered.

On petition of three minor children, Edith, Rose and Charles J. Burdick, their mother, Rose M. Burdick, widow of George Burdick, was appointed guardian of their persons, and the Washington Trust company guardians of their estates.

William Marx, father of the mother being deceased, was appointed guardian of Helen L. Minnie J. Marx, and Charles J. Marx. Bond $1000 Excecut E. Whipple appraisers.

With knowledge that an International World Worker had acted suspiciously on the premises, officers from the department of justice are investigating circumstances in connection with the burning of the stock house of Henry D. Bailey Woolen mill in Hope Valley, early Sunday morning, when the damage was estimated at $30,000. The mill is manufacturing material for clothing of troops under government contract. Several barrels of oil had been tampered with and oil was used in starting the fire, which threatened the main mill building.
